

TAFT SENDS HIS VIEWS ON MATTER

MESSAGE SENT TO CONGRESS
ON MATTERS OF VITAL IMPORTANCE.

ADVISES SOME AMENDMENT

Philippine Amendments Passed by the Senate This Afternoon, Some Republicans Bolting Measure.

Washington, D. C., June 16.—Recommendation for legislation looking to placing a two per cent tax on the net income of corporations and also the adoption of the amendment to the constitution providing for an imposition of an income tax without apportionment among the several states, President Taft today sent to congress a message embodying his views on this subject. This action followed a protracted special cabinet meeting. The President speaks of the apparent inability of congress to agree on the inheritance tax and as regards an income tax he refers to the decision of the supreme court which held the tax to be unconstitutional unless apportioned according to population. An amendment, therefore, he declares is the only proper course. He estimates the amendment to the tariff bill providing for imposition upon all corporations and joint stock companies for profit, except national and savings banks, loan and building associations, of excise tax two per cent bill being in annual revenue twenty-five millions. He says the adoption of an amendment will make a long step toward that supervisory control of corporations which may prevent further abuse of power.

The senate today adopted the amended Philippine free trade section to the tariff bill. Six republicans voted with the democrats against the committee proposition.

SUPREME COURT'S DECISION FINAL

ILLINOIS PRIMARY LAW DEALT
ITS DEATH BLOW TODAY.

LAW IS UNCONSTITUTIONAL

So the Court Finds After Due Deliberation of the Wording of the Measure.

Springfield, Ill., June 16.—The supreme court today decided the primary election law was unconstitutional. The court holds the law unconstitutional because it requires no person except the persons registered at the last previous election can vote at the primary election, and yet makes no provision for registration of voters and because it provides the senatorial committee, by resolution, may decide how many candidates each party can nominate for the legislature, and that only that number of candidates may be voted for, thus depriving the voters of their constitutional right under the election law to vote for as many candidates as there are offices to be filled and to cumulate their votes.

EUROPE INTERESTED IN ROYAL MEETING

Considerable Significance Attached
To Meeting Of Czar and Kaiser Tomorrow.

Berlin, June 16.—The imperial yacht Hohenzollern with Emperor William aboard is now on its way to the Finnish Gulf for the meeting arranged for tomorrow between the Emperor and the Czar. According to advice from St. Petersburg the meeting of the two rulers will take place off Reval. Both the Emperor and the Czar are to be accompanied by their foreign ministers and other advisers. Great political significance is attached to the meeting of the two rulers. It is fully recognized that German mediation, which brought about a settlement of the recent Balkan crisis, was not altogether to the liking of St. Petersburg and that as a consequence in future might be more likely to be given Great Britain's continental policy than to the German policy. The possibility of close relations between Russia on the one side and France and England on the other has been viewed in Germany with some concern.

A determined effort will now be made to detach Russia from England and France and to engage Russian support for Germany. The personal element plays a great part in international European politics, and the striking personality of the Kaiser counts for a great deal. The Kaiser is expected to exert all his personal fascination in order to gain the sympathies of the Czar and thereby to influence the foreign policy of Russia in a direction favorable to Germany.

HUNDREDS AT OLD HOME WEEK IN ABERDEEN, S. DAK.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]
Aberdeen, S. D., June 16.—Aberdeen gave a hearty Old Home Week welcome today to the hundreds who have gathered here for the three days' festivities. Today was "Territorial Day" on the celebration program and among the speakers were Governor Burke of North Dakota and Governor Vessey of South Dakota. Historical exercises were held, with papers and addresses dealing with pioneer days in Dakota territory.

MANY ALUMNI ARE TO BE IN MADISON

Over 500 Alumni of State University
to Hold Reunion at Madison
Next Week.

Madison, Wis., June 16.—The presence of over 500 alumni from all parts of the country, the baccalaureate address by Joaquim Nabuco, Brazilian ambassador to the United States, and the unveiling of the heroic bronze statue of Lincoln will make the fifty-sixth commencement of the University of Wisconsin one of the most notable in the history of the institution.

The alumni will occupy an unusually prominent place in the affairs of commencement week, as a result of the renewed activity of the Alumni association during the past year. Some 100 members of the University of Wisconsin Alumni Club of Chicago, accompanied by their club, will take an active part in the celebration by the old grads. This club will sing a number of the new songs just published by the Chicago Alumni club.

Alumni Banquet in the Evening
The annual alumni banquet will be held in the evening of Alumni day, Tuesday, June 22, instead of at noon as heretofore, and it promises to be the largest in recent years. Covers will be laid for 500. The president of the association, Dr. A. J. Ochsenrath, Chicago, will preside as toastmaster, and responses will be made by some twenty-five well-known graduates.

Stronger Organization of Alumni
The sixty alumni visiting committee that have been engaged during the year inspecting the various departments of the institution will meet on Monday, June 21, to discuss the results of their work and to consider the relation to their alma mater. The annual meeting of the alumni association, which will be held Tuesday morning, June 22, will be taken up largely with the reorganization of the association in order to increase its effectiveness. In cooperation with the regents of the university the executive committee of the Alumni association proposes to provide for a permanent alumni secretary to take charge of all the activities pertaining to the graduates and former students, including the compiling of alumni records, the editing of the Alumni Magazine, and the organization of alumni clubs.

Many Classes to Hold Reunions
The class of '53 will celebrate the fifty-fifth anniversary of its graduation from the university on Alumni day. Bishop Samuel Fallows, '59, of Chicago, is in charge of the arrangements. The class of '71 will have a celebration in honor of the thirty-fifth anniversary, the arrangements being in charge of Congressman Webster J. Brown of Rhinelander. The twenty-fifth anniversary of the class of '81, of which Dr. A. J. Ochsenrath, president of the alumni association, is a member, will be celebrated with a dinner Tuesday noon. Some twenty members of the class of '89 will hold the twentieth reunion, while the class of '99 celebrates its tenth birthday, which over thirty members will be present.

To Unveil Lincoln Statue
The unveiling of Weinman's heroic statue of Lincoln, the only replica of the one dedicated on Memorial day at Lincoln's birthplace in Kentucky, will take place at 5 o'clock on Alumni day, Tuesday, June 22. Richard Lloyd Jones, '97, associate editor of Collier's Weekly, New York, will deliver the principal address. The statue, which has been presented to the university by Thomas E. Brittingham of Madison, will be accepted by President Charles R. Van Hise. The dedicatory ode written for the occasion will be read by Dr. William Ellery Leonard of the English department.

Nabuco on Influence of America
"The Stars of America in Civilization" is the subject of the baccalaureate address to be given by Senator Joaquim Nabuco, Brazilian ambassador to the United States on Sunday, June 20, to the members of the graduation class in Armory hall. The Rev. Howard R. Gold, the Rev. George Macadam, and the Rev. Father Knox will also assist in the baccalaureate exercises.

HONORS FOR WRIGHTS IN THEIR HOME TOWN

Dayton, Ohio Getting Ready For Two-Days' Celebration For Noted
Aeronauts.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]
Dayton, O., June 16.—This city is in a flutter of anticipation over the opening tomorrow of the two days' celebration arranged in honor of Dayton's most famous sons, Wilbur and Orville Wright, the inventors of the aeroplane. The work of decorating the city began in earnest this morning. Public buildings, business houses and private residences are putting on gala attire in honor of the occasion.

Indications are already abundant that the city will be filled with visitors for the celebration. Many from a distance, among them several persons of wide prominence in the field of aeronautics, registered at the hotels today. The Aero Club of America is to day be well represented. Other aeronauts are expected from Cleveland, Indianapolis, St. Louis, Chicago and other points.

The celebration will be of an informal character. The only ceremonious feature will be the presentation to the Wright brothers of the medals voted them by Congress. The presentation will take place at the fair ground and will be witnessed by thousands of spectators. If conditions are favorable an aeroplane flight will probably be made by one of the brothers. Though their early experiments were all conducted at their home in this city, including the construction of their models, Dayton, nevertheless, has never had an opportunity to witness an aeroplane flight. The successful tests of the machine were conducted in North Carolina, while one of the later flights have been other in the vicinity of Washington.

The home city of the famous inventors is looking forward to the promised exhibition here with the keenest interest.

LADIES FROM MANY LANDS AT MEETING

Of International Council Of Women
Which Meets In Toronto, Ontario,
Today.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]
Toronto, Ont., June 16.—Seldom if ever before has Toronto been called upon to entertain such a large gathering of distinguished women as has now assembled here for the quinquennial meeting of the International Council of Women. The number of delegates and visitors already arrived runs into the thousands. They come from all sections of Canada and the United States, from England, France, Germany, Holland and other countries of Europe and some from Australia, India and other far-off lands. Among the women are many who have gained international reputations for their efforts and work in along various lines of human activity.

The women of Toronto, with the hearty cooperation of the women's organizations of Ottawa, Montreal and other cities of the Dominion, have made elaborate preparations for the entertainment of the visitors. The Government of Ontario and the local authorities are lending their aid to the official entertainment program. The sessions of the International Council will continue an entire week. The presiding officer is the Countess of Aberdeen, whose husband is a former Governor-General of Canada and is now Lord Lieutenant of Ireland.

Pittsburg, Pa., June 16.—Over ten thousand skilled workmen, members of the Amalgamated Association of Iron, Steel and Tin Workers, employed by the American Sheet and Tin Plate company, will quit work on June thirtieth, at which time the "open shop" order of the company has become effective. Many unskilled workmen, who will be affected, will follow this action following the special convention held here.

INVESTIGATES WAGE RELATION TO PRICE

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]
Madison, Wis., June 16.—The effect of low prices upon the conditions of wage earners in the street railway, electric light, gas, water, and telephone plants of the state under the new public utility law was made the subject of special investigation by Don D. Lasechier, a graduate student in the University of Wisconsin, the results of which form his thesis for the degree of doctor of philosophy. The State Bureau of Labor and Industrial Statistics, for which he has been acting as a special agent, has just published his work as a part of the thirtieth biennial report of the bureau.

Prices And Profits vs. Wages.
The public utility law, the writer points out, allows the railroad commission to compel public utility companies to charge reasonable prices, a reasonable price being the cost of producing and selling the commodity added. When a price is once established the employed can not increase wages or shorten hours without a sacrifice of profits. This points toward the necessity of consideration of labor conditions in the state's regulation of prices. Otherwise, in protecting the interests of consumers, the state will sacrifice those of the public utility employees.

Do Low Prices Mean Low Wages?
The man who uses the street car demands low fares; citizens ask for cheaper gas and electric light; and subscribers want lower telephone rates. But the employee in the public utility plant demands a good living wage and proper hours. With low wages and long hours the public law can afford to grant the reasonable price and still make the public utility profit allowed by the public utility law, and the higher the wages granted to employees, and the shorter their hours, the higher the companies must place their prices in order to make their profits.

"It should not be concluded, however, that the protection of labor means extremely high prices," says Mr. Lasechier. "Under proper regulation of capitalization and management, short hours and good wages can be obtained with prices much lower than those charged by many unregulated companies."

Points Out Evils in All Industries.
The report treats of the five public utility industries separately, in each case giving special attention to those employees whose conditions of employment present special peculiarities or evils. The wages and hours, both day and sick leave, heat and severity of toil, and the nervous and physical strain of the positions in each industry are treated in detail.

Terrible Heat 12 Hours a Day.
In the retail houses of the coal-plant the men toil in terrible heat 12 hours a day and 7 days a week at $1.50 to $2.50 a day. Water gas makers have as hard physical work and more severe nervous strain for the same hours, at $2 to $2.50 a day. In the water and electric light power houses there is the same 12 hour day seven days in the week at still lower wages. Comparison of conditions of employment in municipal and private ownership shows municipalities to be much more liberal employers. In considering the hours of street railway conductors and motor men, the writer compares the shift system in Milwaukee, Toronto, and in Minneapolis, Cleveland, Toronto, and of London, England. The English and Canadian carmen work but six days, and not over 60 hours a week, whereas Wisconsin carmen work seven days, and in many cases 80 or 90 hours a week. The wages are surprisingly low, being 18 to 24 cents an hour in Milwaukee, and from 9 to 24 cents an hour in smaller cities.

Nervous Strain on "Hello" Girls.
Telephone girls are under more severe nervous and physical strain than subscribers realize, and are paid inadequately. The work of the telephone operator is one of the most severe forms of female labor. Beside the strain on the special senses, the nervous system, there is the fact that their work tends itself most easily to "speeding up," excessive hours, low wages, and other evils. Of the Bell operators 55 per cent, and of the independent workers 20 per cent, receive 8 cents or less an hour, and 70 per cent of all operators get 10 cents or less an hour, for 5 to 12 hours a day, six days a week, and alternate Sundays.

HAS NO FEAR OF ANY RETALIATION

DAIRY AND FOOD COMMISSIONER
BELIEVES LAW WILL BE OBEYED.

OTHER LEGISLATIVE MATTERS

Governor Wants Proof of All Bills
In His Hands By Thursday.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]
Madison, Wis., June 16.—Dairy and Food Commissioner Emery does not appear to fear the threats of manufacturers of food products that they will take into the court the laws enacted by the last legislature. These laws forbid the manufacture or sale in this state of adulterated or "doctored" food products.

Manufacturers of what are known as commercial foodstuffs, which include cereal stuffs, preserved meats and canned goods of "almost every character," are thoroughly disgusted with the Wisconsin brand of pure food laws. The stringency of the laws passed against the adulteration of food products exceeds that of other states' laws and these new statutes may be the means of making the manufacturers make a wide detour of the badger state in shipping their goods abroad. It is not likely, however, according to Dr. Emery, that the people of the state will raise any prolonged cry against the bills designed to preserve their health.

Undoubtedly the most important of the bills is what is popularly known as the benzene oil of soda measure. Although this is short, it says much in a few lines. It provides absolutely that no person, or corporation, or servant, or agent of a corporation shall sell or expose for sale any article of food that contains benzene oil or benzene. Violation of this act is to be punished by a fine of not less than $25 or more than $100 or by imprisonment of from 30 to 120 days. This act goes into effect July 1, 1901. Thus at this time a few hundred grocery stores in Wisconsin will have to remove from their shelves certain brightly colored cutlery and other delicious apparels.

The general pure food law simply defines what all foods shall be. Thus meat is described as "fresh, clean, sound, dressed and properly prepared from animals in good health at time of slaughter; and the term of animals as used in this bill includes not only animals, but fish, fowl, crustaceans, mollusks and all other animals used as food." All other articles of food are described in as careful a manner. Dried apples, for instance, are described as "evaporated fruit made from peeled and cored apples and not to contain more than 27 per cent of moisture determined by the standard commercial method of drying for four hours at the temperature of boiling water."

Grain is described in the Wisconsin pure food bill as "fully matured, clean, sound, unadulterated seed of wheat, maize, rice, oats, rye, buckwheat, barley, sorghum, millet, or spelt." Milk products probably are more carefully defined than any other foods and the percentages of cream and butter fats in milk products are named by percentages.

If food exposed for sale in Wisconsin is not up to the standards set down in the law, prosecutions may follow with the penalties the same as for violations of the present imperfect food laws.

Governor Davidson yesterday afternoon had a conference with the chief clerks of both houses in order to ascertain just when all the enrolled bills will be in his hands. It is understood that the governor gave as his opinion that proofs of all the bills, at least, should be given him by Thursday evening.

He said he did not see how final adjournment of the legislature could be taken even on Saturday. He told the clerks that he did not care to have a strict construction placed on the law and would not demand that the enrolled bills be placed in his hands, if he did think, however, that he should have the printed proofs of those bills before him by Thursday night.

Appointment of members of the board of control under the bill passed at this legislature probably will not be made in time for their confirmation by the senate at this session. The new board of control law will not be enrolled so it can be signed much before Friday. This will prevent its publication before Saturday night and unless the senate desires to remain in session next week the governor will make the appointments as interim appointments.

Making Money On the Farm

I.—Drainage

By C. V. GREGORY.

Agricultural Division, Iowa State College

Copyright, 1909, by American Press Association

C. V. GREGORY.

Author of "Home Course in Modern Agriculture"

In order to make money on the farm it is first necessary to get the land in shape to respond liberally to the work put upon it. One of the first and most important steps in getting it in such condition is to drain it thoroughly. There are two general types of drainage—the drains and open ditches.

About the only place where an open ditch can be used to advantage is in draining large sections of the country where natural drainage is insufficient to carry off the surface water or to provide an outlet for the soil. Such a ditch is really an artificial river. Its large size prevents it from becoming easily clogged. It should be made deep enough to provide a good outlet for the water from the farms tributary to it. The sides should have a slope of at least one to one—run back one foot for every foot of rise.

The Use of Tile.
The major portion of the drainage, however, must be done with tile. In starting out to tile a farm it pays to go at it systematically. Few farmers are able to tile their whole farms at once, but by planning the whole system before any work is done and then putting in as many rods as possible each year the farm will in the end be thoroughly drained at much less expense than if the work was done at in a hit or miss fashion.

The proposed lines of the tile should be laid out by a good engineer. He has the tools and ability to do it properly, and a little money spent in this way will be made up many times over in the added efficiency of the system.

The first money that is spent for tile should be put where it will yield the quickest returns. On almost every farm there are sloughs and drains that are too wet to work long after the rest of the field is dry. The loss is not so much from the land that is taken up by these sloughs, though that often amounts to considerable, as to the trouble and loss of time in working around them. A line of tile can be run up to such a place to take out the water and laterals put in later to drain the surrounding ground more thoroughly.

Often after the slough is drained there will be a strip of corn over the tile that will be the best in the field, while out a little further the corn will be small and yellow. The width of this strip of corn is a very good indication of the distance apart that the drains should be placed. The ground over the tile is warmer and drier in the spring than the other, and consequently the corn gets a better start. Through the summer, when there is no water in the tile, air is flowing down through them. This pulls air down through the soil, making root growth more rapid and the plants more vigorous. A deep root system means a large feeding ground and consequently a larger yield. For these reasons all low, flat lands should be thoroughly underlaid with rows of tile, even though the surface water never stands on them. A map showing the exact location of the drains should be kept so that they can be readily found when it is desired to add laterals to the system.

Planning the Drainage System.
In planning a drainage system there are three especially important considerations—the depth and size of the tile and the distance apart of the drains. More tile drains are put in too shallow than too deep. In most soils four feet is about the right depth. In hardpan the tile may have to be laid shallower or the water will never get to them. Deep tile means a deep layer of mellow soil, which acts as a sponge to hold capillary water for the crops. The deeper the tile the farther their effect will be felt on either side.

The size of the tile depends upon the fall and the amount of land to be drained. The engineer who lays out the drain will usually be able to compute the size required.

In estimating the number of acres to be drained by a given line of tile all the land from which surface water flows toward it should be included, as well as all land drained by laterals which empty into it.

The depth of the drains and the character of the soil are the chief factors that determine the distance apart to place the drains. The four foot deep on a sandy soil will draw seventy-five feet on either side, while in clay soil their effect will not be felt a third as far. As already stated, the width of the strip of good corn or other grain over a drain is a good indication of the "pulling power" of the drain. Where a drainage system is being put in a little at a time the laterals can be put in from 75 to 200 feet apart at first, depending on the soil, and others put in between laterals if experience shows them to be necessary.

The Outlet.
One of the most important parts of the drainage system is the outlet. If the drain empties into a ditch or stream a stone bulwark should be built up to keep the tile from being washed away. The drain should enter the stream above the level of the water if possible. When it enters below the force of the current is checked, and if the water is carrying much silt some of it will be deposited in the tile. It is a good plan to use sewer pipe for a few feet back from the outlet, as it is not so easily displaced by freezing.

Many drains are built with an outlet in a box at the side of the road or next to a neighbor's fence. Such an outlet is not very satisfactory, but sometimes it is the best that can be provided. The box should be well built to keep out rubbish. The mouth of the tile in this as well as in other forms of outlets should be covered to keep out small animals during dry weather. The bottom of the box should be at least a foot below the tile. The silt that settles here should be cleaned out occasionally. A much better plan than the use of a tile box is to cooperate with the road authorities or with the neighbors and extend the line of tile to some permanent outlet.

Laying the Tile.
It rarely pays a farmer to lay his own tile, but he should keep close watch of the men whom he hires to do the work. A little carelessness in laying the tile may make the drainage system practically worthless. If at any place the tile dips an inch below the grade line, that inch will fill up with silt, and the capacity of the whole system will be reduced that much. The old saying that a chain is no stronger than its weakest link applies with especial force to a tile drain. No man can lay tile to grade accurately by eye, even if there is water running in the ditch at the time. Remember that it is your money that is paying for the drain and that it is your privilege to have it put in as you want it.

The only way to get the tile laid exactly to grade is to use targets. When an engineer lays out a line of the tile he sets a row of grade stakes, each one marked with the depth the ditch is to be at that point. When the ditch is down nearly to the required point targets are set up at these grade stakes. A target consists of an upright stick on each side of the ditch with a crossbar clamped to it. These crossbars should be adjusted so that they are level and just seven feet above the grade line. For instance, if the cut marked on the grade stake is four feet the crossbar should be three feet above the stake. After a number of these targets have been set a string is stretched across the tops of them. Then a measuring stick seven feet long will just reach from the string to the correct grade line. With one man to hold the measuring stick and another to scrape out the bottom of the ditch, it can be dug to grade very accurately.

Of course both digging the ditch and laying the tile should begin at the outlet. Don't let the men stand on the bank and lay the tile with a hook. Make them get down into the ditch and put them in by hand, standing on those already laid to hold them in place. By handling each tile as cracked or imperfect ones can be discovered and thrown out. After the tile are laid a little dirt should be scraped from the side of the ditch to hold them in place. As soon as the whole line is in no time should be lost in covering the ditch.

feeds them out as they are needed, pastes them to the envelopes and seals it. The contrivance consists of a large handle member with a trough in which a supply of stamps is placed. Near the lower end is the stamping pad, supplied from a water chamber below it. At the end is a roller which by its rotation feeds the stamps out and pastes them fast after they have passed over the handle and come out beyond the handle. Reaching out from the side of the handle is an extension of the roller, which is used to seal the stamps.

Coronation Lunches.
The most unceremonious coronation snack upon record is undoubtedly that piece of cold chicken which was thrown to and devoured by the late Lord Gwyther in the gallery of West minster Hall 80 years ago. But even the authorized refreshment of the highest personages is apt to be rather unconventional served on these occasions. Queen Victoria tells in her journal how, after she had been crowned, she "required with all the peers bearing the regalia, my ladies and train-bearers, to St. Edward's chapel, as it is called; but which, as Lord Melbourne said, was more unlike a chapel than anything he had ever seen; for what was called an altar was covered with sandwiches, bottles of wine, etc., etc. Lord Melbourne took a glass of wine, but the queen does not say whether she took any refreshment herself. —London Chronicle.

FALLS 3,500 FEET; IS ALIVE.

Amateur Aviator Has a Thrilling Experience in Nebraska.

Berwyn, Neb., June 16.—A local inventor dropped 3,500 feet in a crippled aeroplane here. He was not seriously hurt.

The amateur aviator was U. Sorenson, a blacksmith. Sorenson, in view of several hundred fellow-townsmen, made the ascent in a balloon and then attempted a descent in an aeroplane that he had constructed after several months' labor. When the desired height had been reached he cut the aeroplane loose. The rudder had worked loose and Sorenson was unable to guide the machine. It began to descend at a terrific speed, turning over and over as it dropped. The inventor clung tenaciously to the craft, and when it struck the ground he was in a sitting posture.

Fearful American Treasure Hunters.
Under the headline "Saved! Saved from the American Treasure Hunter!" the Gossamer Zettling says: "The beautiful silver tankard which has been one of the show pieces of the city hall for many years and to see which visitors always went to 'Huldigungs-zimmer,' has been sold for 750,000 marks to the Emperor Frederick Museum of Berlin. This masterpiece of the old German silversmith's art would never have been sold but for the fact that it would now be placed beyond the reach of grasping relic hunters and where more people may see and appreciate it. The first year's interest on the sum realized will be used to avert an increase in the tax rate of our town."

NO NEED TO LICK STAMPS

Roller Device Moistens Them and Pastes Them Fast.

The moistening of stamps with the tongue is not only an unpleasant practice in cases where a great many stamps are to be affixed it is an unhealthy one. Every clerk who has many letters to stamp has a wet sponge on his or her desk for that purpose, but a California man has recently designed a big improvement on this simple expedient. This device is a combined stamp-sticker and envelope-sealer which moistens the stamp.

hardpan the tile may have to be laid shallower or the water will never get to them. Deep tile means a deep layer of mellow soil, which acts as a sponge to hold capillary water for the crops. The deeper the tile the farther their effect will be felt on either side.

The size of the tile depends upon the fall and the amount of land to be drained. The engineer who lays out the drain will usually be able to compute the size required.

In estimating the number of acres to be drained by a given line of tile all the land from which surface water flows toward it should be included, as well as all land drained by laterals which empty into it.

The depth of the drains and the character of the soil are the chief factors that determine the distance apart to place the drains. The four foot deep

The Evening Chit-Chat

By RUTH CAMERON

DO NOT think that the things you object to in your fiancé you will get used to in your husband. The fact that you are tied to any disagreeable habit for life, will be more apt to magnify it than make it less.

That's what a woman who ought to know, said to me the other day. And I'd advise the young girl who is stealing herself to endure disagreeable traits and distasteful habits in her fiancé by assuring herself that she will get used to them after she is married, to think that advice over well.

You cannot expect that everything about a man will be perfect any more than everything about you is perfect; but they say love is more or less blind, and if in the heyday of your engagement you are continually noting faults, isn't it a sign that it may not be love at all that you feel, but some weaker, lesser passion?

Of course you will probably see some faults any way, but you ought to be able to say of them, "I love him because of them," or "I love him in spite of them; I can stand them because he is so dear in other ways," and not the fatal—"I'll get used to them after we are married."

If it were possible for all engaged couples at some time during the engagement to be so isolated that for a week at a time they could converse with no one but each other, I think there would be fewer applications for divorce on account of "incompatibility of temper."

As it is now the engaged couple are usually the centre of such a whirl of good times, so much feted and so much amused that they aren't given a fair chance to find out if they wouldn't be desperately bored with each other later.

I was talking with a woman the other day who is very unhappy with her husband.

"He is very good to me," she said, "but I don't love him. Many of the little things that he does irritate me and bore me now that I know they ought not to. I suppose it is simply because I do not love him."

"Did you know when you married him that you didn't love him and that he bored you?" I asked.

"I knew I didn't love him," she said, "but there were always so many other people around that I didn't get a chance to be bored, and I thought I'd grow to love him."

Our homes are full of them—the unhappy women who married on these premises and found them false—and also, alas, our divorce courts.

WHAT IS A POSSIMIST?
To be called a pessimist is the greatest side of life but not allowing this to carry him off his feet and prejudice his good judgement. In the popular vernacular it has come to have a secondary meaning, which is on account of its similarity to the name of the possum, and indicates capacity not only for eating but for work and for appreciation of the good things of the world.

Pessimist has not as yet found its way into the dictionary, but no doubt the 1910 revision will add this new word to the English language and the originator will have bestowed an enduring monument to himself beside helping out those who wish to pay a new and unusual compliment to their friends.

The true pessimist neither favors the extreme and frequently unbalanced views of the optimist nor the despairing views of the pessimist but is a person of common sense, with sufficient humor to see the pleasant

SELF-MARRIAGE LEGALIZED.
Miss Laura B. Clark and Rev. E. E. Davidson.

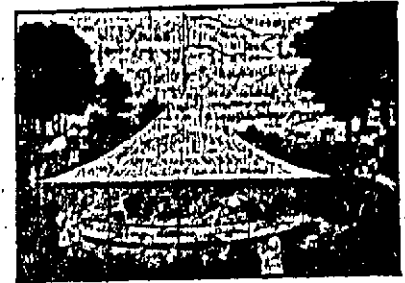

Washington, Ind.—The would-be romance of the Rev. E. E. Davidson, pastor of the fashionable First Christian church of this city, has turned out more seriously than the pastor thought. Judge Houghton of the Davidson circuit court declared valid the marriage ceremony performed by Rev. Davidson uniting himself in marriage with Miss Laura Clark, daughter of former Mayor Halo Clark. This decision has come after a contest through all the courts and marks the end to one of the most sensational incidents of recent record in Indiana.

The filing of the suit created a sensation last March and was the cause of Rev. E. E. Davidson tendering his resignation as pastor of the fashionable First Christian church and his subsequent midnight departure from this city.

When Miss Clark, after having repeatedly appealed to him to make public their secret marriage in the

that to escape possible violence he drove from the city at midnight and never returned, although the court tried to get service on him. The last heard of him he was in Toronto, Can. The young lady whom the court today declared to be the legal wife of Rev. Davidson is a cripple, and is compelled to get about on crutches. She has a remarkably pretty face, is cultured, is a fine musician and is a prominent member of the First Presbyterian church of this city. Her father was twice mayor of this city. In rendering his decision the judge announced that, having heard the evidence and being sufficiently advised, the court decrees that the marriage entered into by Miss Laura Clark and E. E. Davidson, and their subsequent relations as husband and wife are legal and binding and they are declared and legally acknowledged husband and wife.

Dentists and Dentists

"Will you allow me to have what I want?" said a prospective patient recently.

"Why not?" says I.

"Well, I want a new set of teeth, and I know what I want, and my dentist insists on my taking teeth which do not please me."

It is needless to add that I immediately placed before the patient a large selection of teeth from which she had her own choice.

I am in business to please my patients, not to insist on to them what they do not want.

At the same time, I can add advice gleaned from long years of making teeth for all kinds of cases.

HERMAN BUCHHOLZ DIED LAST NIGHT

City is Called upon to Mourn the Passing of Another of Its Most Substantial Businessmen.

Frederick Herman Buchholz, president of the Janesville-Carriage Works, a pioneer resident, and a substantial citizen who had long occupied an important place in the business and industrial life of the community, died at his home, 420 Prospect avenue, at six o'clock last evening. Though he had been prostrated with a complication of diseases but a short time, it was known by his many friends as early as last Saturday that there was no hope for him. The last few hours were marked by little suffering and the end came peacefully.

Because of his high talent and ability which enabled him, unaided, to carve out a career for himself in a new country, the city could ill afford to lose him, and his passing will be mourned by all who prized the innate sincerity and goodness of his character, both as a businessman and neighbor.

Born in the town of Elling, Eastern Prussia, on April 15, 1839, Mr. Buchholz received his early education in his native town and learned the trade of a carriage-maker in the shop conducted by his father, Ernest Buchholz.

In 1856 he came to America and on June 17 of that year took up his residence in Janesville. For four years he worked as a journeyman for the carriage-maker, Robert Hodge. In 1860 he bought an interest in the business and the firm name was changed to Hodge & Buchholz. That association continued for twenty-one years. Mr. Hodge died in 1882 and Mr. Buchholz carried on the business alone for a few years. Then, for a brief period, he was in partnership with O. F. Nowlan. In May, 1887, about the time Mr. Nowlan retired from the concern, Charles W. Beckman was admitted into partnership under the firm name of H. Buchholz & Co. The firm was incorporated under the name of the Janesville Carriage Works, with Mr. Buchholz as president, in 1893.

On January 16, 1893, he married Miss Dorothea Posen, a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Martin Posen. The wife, five children, and a brother, Alexander Buchholz of this city, survive him. The children are: C. W. Buchholz of Salt Lake City, Utah; C. A. Buchholz of Tucson, Arizona; and Mrs. A. L. Wilcox, Alderman George O. Buchholz, and Miss Gertrude Buchholz, all of this city.

At various times during his residence here, the deceased served his city and county as alderman and supervisor. He was a member of several of the fraternal organizations, including Western Star Lodge No. 14, F. & A. M., Oriental Lodge No. 22, K. of L., and the old Olive Branch Lodge No. 22, A. O. U. W.

Funeral services will probably be held from the home Friday afternoon. An announcement of the hour will be made later.

Had Ankle Badly Sprained and Gash Cut in Knee Which Had to Be Closed With 32 Stitches.

Frank W. Freeborn, manager of the marble work conducted by the late Mrs. Bonnett, sustained severe injuries in an accident which occurred Monday evening. A pony which he was riding to water was frightened by the approach of another horse; shied out to a sidewalk, slipped, and falling, threw its rider to the ground. The accident opened a gash in one of Mr. Freeborn's knees which was subsequently closed with thirty-two stitches and the ankle of the same limb was badly sprained.

LOCAL Y ATHLETES IN TRI-CITY MEET

Six Runners and Jumpers Went to Evansville to Meet Beloit and Evansville Teams.

Backers of the Y. M. C. A. track team plumed their faith for a victory in the track meet at the Irish picnic at Evansville today on six athletes. Others who were to have gone with the team were unable to do so for various reasons; one, it is rumored, getting "cold feet" on account of a controversy he had with an Evansville basketball player, when the Janesville five played there last winter. The six, accompanied by Physical Director Birch and a few friends, left this forenoon at 11:25 for the Out-Of-City and at 12:30 entered the meet to compete against athletes from the Beloit and Evansville associations. On account of the unexpected drop-out of the other runners, the six who composed the team had to "double up" to be in the ten events scheduled. Those who composed the team were: Floyd Davis, Roger Cunningham, Verne Terry, Victor Reed, Glenn Robertson and Earl Tippet.

The following are the events in which the local athletes were entered: Fifty-yard dash—Floyd Davis, Roger Cunningham and Verne Terry. Hundred-yard dash—Floyd Davis, Roger Cunningham, Victor Reed and Verne Terry.

220-yard dash—Reed, Cunningham, Davis and Terry.

BLAST ROCK FOR OLIVE ST. SEWER

Contractors Ryan & Finley Have Found it Necessary to Use Steam Drill and Dynamite.

In order to facilitate the operations in cutting the sewer trench through the ledge or rock on Olive street, between the Washington and Madison street intersections, Contractors Ryan & Finley yesterday instructed steam drill to take the place of the hand apparatus which proved too slow and tedious a proposition for such an unbroken ledge. The drill is being used to bore holes for charges of dynamite, some of which were to be set off today. The trench is to be excavated to a depth of seven feet and the stratum of rock which has to be removed is about three feet deep.

NUPTIAL HIGH MASS AT CATHOLIC CHURCH

Was Performed Yesterday Morning for Margaret Noblenky and Harry Brown by Dean Reilly.

Yesterday morning at nine o'clock at St. Patrick's church, Rev. Dean E. Reilly performed nuptial high mass for Margaret Noblenky and Harry Brown. Miss Clara Kingman attended the bride and William Brown, of Chicago, a brother of the groom, was best man. The wedding was followed by a party at the home of Henry Reilly and a dance in the evening. About thirty-five guests attended the wedding and dance. The happy couple received many beautiful and useful gifts. They will make their home in this city.

ATTENDED BARBECUE IN OLD KENTUCKY

George S. Parker and W. F. Palmer Participated in Memorable Celebration Yesterday.

George S. Parker and W. F. Palmer returned from Morganfield, Ky., where they went to attend a meeting of the directors of the Land River, Rail & Coal company. Yesterday the stockholders enjoyed a notable barbecue given in the vicinity of the mine, which is located between Morganfield and Uniontown.

A 120-pound sheep was roasted, southern style, and not a vestige of the meat was left when the fifteen or sixteen guests arose from the banquet board. A typical Kentucky colonel acted as master of ceremonies. He opened his speech sentimentally with the traditional appeal: "Ladies and gentlemen—"

"No ladies present!" interrupted one of his auditors. "Yes, and—few gentlemen!" shouted the colonel.

(Special to this Gazette.)
Atlanta, Ga., June 14.—The Great Council of the Improved Order of Red Men of Georgia began its annual meeting in this city today with an attendance of delegates from all over the state. At the initial session this morning Mayor Maddox welcomed the delegates and response was made by Past Great Incumbent, Robert T. Daniel. At the conclusion of these formalities the convention went into executive session. The proceedings will be concluded tomorrow. The annual reports show the order to be in a flourishing condition in Georgia. During the past year there was an increase of nine tribes with an aggregate membership of nearly one thousand.

OBITUARY.

Infant Child

The three-month-old babe of Mr. and Mrs. James Cochran, 618 South Washington street, died about three o'clock this afternoon.

Mrs. George T. Nicholson
After an illness of a year, Mrs. George T. Nicholson of 321 South Academy street died at 5:20 this morning. Mrs. Nicholson was born in Onondago, N. Y., October 10, 1845. She was married to George T. Nicholson in 1866 in Chicago. Mr. Nicholson was for fifty years a trusted employee of the Chicago and North-Western road and was retired two years ago on a pension. Mr. and Mrs. Nicholson have been residents of Janesville since 1895. The funeral will be held on Saturday, hour not yet fixed, and interment will be at Oak Hill cemetery. Reverend Laughlin will officiate at the services, the deceased having been a devout member of the Presbyterian church. Two nieces, Miss Alma Cottrell and Mrs. Ella Jacobson of Chicago, are expected this evening, being the only immediate relations beside the bereaved husband.

Mrs. Susan Davis left Tuesday for her home in Shenandoah, Iowa.

Arranged His Own Signals.

Harry Borsford, who is at the Grand this week, tells of a recent experience down south. To reach one of the towns in which he was advertised to appear he was compelled to take a branch line that was full of kinks. The train finally stopped at a place where there was apparently no station. Putting his head out of the window he noticed the conductor walking leisurely down the track. "Anything wrong?" inquired Borsford, anxiously. "Oh, nothing here," said the conductor. "Only the signal was again us; but I just put it right and we'll be off again directly."—Kansas City Star.

Thesaurus a Treasure.

John Lewis Roget, son of the author of the famous work, "Roget's Thesaurus of English Words," recently died, leaving an estate worth $305,000. It is curious how this wonderful book came into existence. It seems that old Peter Mark Roget, the author, was a Frenchman who had great difficulty in mastering the English language, and to aid himself in this task began preparing his Thesaurus of words, which ultimately developed into the work which has been an invaluable to many literary men. The work was under preparation for nearly 50 years, and on the death of the author, his son continued it.

Origin of French Postal System.

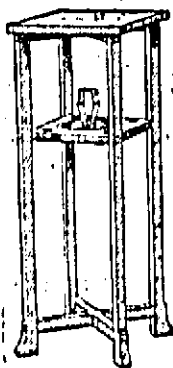

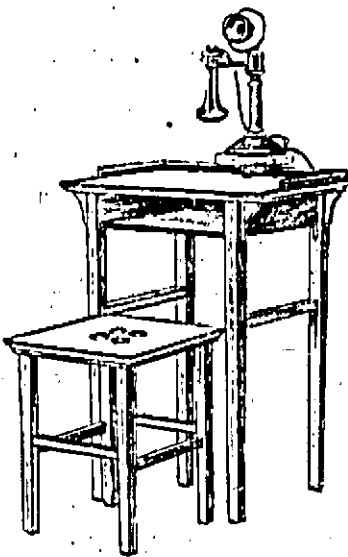

The French postal system was started in the reign of Louis XI, but the first director general was appointed by Louis XIV. He formed the office, paying a million francs a year for the privilege. This method continued until the revolution, when the farmer was abolished and the control was given to ten managers elected by universal suffrage. That plan did not work very satisfactorily and the office of director general was revived under the consulate. The office of under secretary for posts and telegraphs held by M. Simyan, was first created in 1877, abolished in 1878 and revived again ten years later.—Westminster Gazette.

As a Money Saver As a Trouble Saver As a Time Saver

No Modern Appliance Equals the Cabinet Gas Range

It Combines all the virtues of All Other Styles.

It has two ovens and a warming closet, all heated with the same burner, thus saving money. All are at a convenient height so there is no stooping.

It contains five burners: one double burner, three single burners and a simmering burner.

It stands clear of the floor so that scrubbing and sweeping underneath are made easy.

When intelligently used, gas is the cheapest kitchen fuel. It is well to remember this fact when thinking over the many other attractive features of a Gas Range.

IT SAVES fuel, as your flame can be turned off and on, high or low, at will.

IT SAVES trouble as it does away with dirt, ashes, soot, smoke, kindling.

IT SAVES time, no waiting for the necessary heat from the slow combustion of coal or wood. You have an abundance of heat by regulating the flame, and you have it instantly. It is the most dependable fuel.

IT IS COOL, CLEAN, ECONOMICAL, QUICK, ACCURATE, CONVENIENT.

The range illustrated costs $30.00 delivered and connected.
Terms 1-3 Down, Balance in Six Monthly Payments.

A TRYING DAY FOR MRS. GOULD

SOBS IN COURT WHEN SHE IS ACCUSED OF PROFANITY.

WITNESSES TELL OF "JAGS"

Staggered Against Bannister in Castle, Declares One—Drank Cocktails Before Breakfast, Says Maid—Called Millionaire Husband a Hound.

New York, June 16.—Weeping and blushing with shame, when witnesses
told of her profane language and related incidents when she was so intoxicated that she staggered, Mrs.
Howard Gould had an extremely trying day in court.

It was a day of testimony for the defense, during which Mr. Gould's attorney sought to bring out through witnesses who had been associated with Mrs. Gould that her habits were such that her husband was justified in leaving her. In the event of proving this, the defense hopes to undermine the charge of abandonment, the only phase of the plaintiff's case which has withstood the attacks of opposing counsel. Howard Gould is expected to take the stand today.

Buries Face in Shame.
Mrs. Gould, having naively told what is required of a woman of fashion in the matter of dress at Palm Beach and elsewhere, witnesses for the defense recited the indulgence of the same woman of fashion in the matter of alcoholic stimulants, and told further, while the heavily veiled Mrs. Gould buried her burning face in her hands, of certain remarks and conversations not exactly in keeping with $500 gowns and the palatial Castle
Gould on Long Island.

"It was during this testimony concerning some of the alleged violent and profane language, some of it as related too strong to be printed with propriety, that Mrs. Gould wept most.

Called Husband "Little Hound."
Specific statements that Mrs. Gould had been intoxicated on various occasions, that she called Howard Gould
"you little hound" one night, that once she was apparently so under the influence of liquor as to stagger
against the bannister at Castle Gould,
that her maid brought liquors to her room, including sometimes two cocktails before breakfast, was among the statements brought out as evidence of the Gould estate related on the stand their experiences with their former mistress.

In the midst of the testimony relating to Mrs. Gould's alleged intemperance, her lawyer, Clarence J. Shear, who had objected strenuously at first
to the trend of the testimony, but was overruled, injected into the case the rather novel argument that admitting even that his client had been intemperate, this should have strengthened
rather than have weakened the ties
between wife and husband.

"It has been held," he said, "that if
a husband drank he needed the love
and companionship of his wife more than if he were sober. Is not this equally true in the case of the wife?"

Consumed Much Liquor.
Whether or not it is for managing a household, it was a rather erratic administration that Mrs. Gould conducted at Castle Gould, according to most of the testimony. Verbal clashes with the manager of the great estate,
heated arguments at the lion coop
with carpenters, one of whom testified that she "could not walk straight" at the time; a period when she remained in her room for two weeks, consuming during that time seven bottles
of brandy with other liquors—these incidents and others were sworn to on the stand. Also, there was an account by a former steward of an exciting night when, he said, she wanted the house locked, although Howard Gould was out on the front lawn. This, said the steward, did not appear to Mrs. Gould as an argument against closing the front door, and she told him to go ahead and lock up.

Ice Man Favors Her.
While most of the testimony was against Mrs. Gould, one witness spoke in her favor. He is Charles H.
Danks of Glen Cove, Long Island, an ice manufacturer, who formerly was engaged in the business of sinking icecreams. He testified that in 1902 and 1903 he did considerable work on the Gould estate and saw Mrs. Gould frequently. He had never seen her intoxicated, he said, but at times he knew she had been drinking because he could "smell her breath."

Sacramento, Cal., June 16.—The governor issued a warrant based on a regulation from the governor of Illinois for the return to Illinois of James Wright, convicted murderer.
Wright escaped from jail at St. Clair,
Ill.

Longshoremen Vote Against Strike.
Detroit, Mich., June 16.—The Longshoremen of the Great Lakes have voted against a strike, the majority being less than 200. International President T. V. O'Connor has gone to Toledo and Secretary John J. Joyce declined to make any statement for

SPANKED BOY A SUICIDE.
Five-Year-Old Child Ends Life Follow- ing Punishment.

Central City, Ky., June 16.—Because he was spanked by his mother, the five-year-old son of Mrs. Samuel Scott drowned himself in a well on the promises. He had threatened that he would commit suicide in that manner
when his mother advanced toward him with the announced intention of punishing him.

After his whipping the child left
the house and in a moment his mother
heard him scream. She investigated and found the child had drowned himself, his curls showing on the surface of the water. The body was recovered. Mrs. Scott is prostrated.

NEAR END OF CHEAP FOOD.
Nation's Population Overtaking Supply Says Dean of University.

Kington, R. I., June 16.—"We have seen the last of cheap bread in this country," said Eugene Davenport,
Dean of the University of Illinois, Urbana, Ill., at the graduation exercises
of Deek Island State college.

Dean Davenport estimated that in another 100 years the population of the United States would be 1,600,000, 600, or more than 400 to the square
mile of territory, and said:

"Any way you can figure it, we are near the end of cheap food in this country, which means that population
is beginning to overtake the food supply."

PRESIDENT TAFT FOR TRUST TAX

PRESIDENT URGES TWO PER CENT. ASSESSMENT ON UN-DISTRIBUTED EARNINGS.

CONGRESS RECEIVES MESSAGE

Income Tax Plan to Be Left to States
for Settlement if Recommendations Are Carried Out—Borah Would Free Philippines.

Washington, June 16.—If the recommendations embodied in a message
sent to congress to-day by President Taft are carried out a tax of two per cent. on the undistributed net earnings of trusts and other corporations will be provided in an amendment to the tariff bill and the income tax question will be left to the states for settlement. It is believed the senate will adopt the president's plan.

This understanding was reached at a session of the cabinet and was approved by Republican leaders of the senate who conferred with the president last night. In order that there shall be no question that the two propositions recommended have the support of the administration, Attorney General Wickersham drafted both
the amendment and the resolution.
The corporation tax amendment was referred to the committee on finance
and the resolution submitting the question of amending the constitution to the committee on judiciary. Doubtless both of these committees will report promptly so that all of the questions involved may be disposed of on Friday, when the pending income tax amendment will be taken up for consideration.

Gains Progressive Support.
In view of the emphatic stand taken
by President Taft against a direct tax upon incomes, in the face of the decision of the supreme court of the United States on that subject, and his preference for the proposed tax upon the earnings of corporations several progressive Republicans have signified their intention of following his recommendations. At the same time not all of the progressive Republicans are satisfied with this administrative program and it is probable that some of them will voice vigorous protests.
Democratic senators also are expected to indulge in strong criticism denunciatory of the tax on corporations as a substitute for a direct tax on incomes.

Not only is the president favorable
to an amendment providing for a tax
upon the net earnings of corporations because of the added revenue it would produce, but much more so on account of the fact that he believes it would bring about a helpful and healthy degree of publicity relative to the affairs of the trusts and other corporations of the country.

Sees Benefit to Corporations.
This, he as well as many of his advisors, believe would be a reform
which would produce great satisfaction to the people at large, and at the same time give the business corporations a standing which otherwise it would be impossible for them to attain.

The president believes a provision for the imposition of such a tax can be framed on the basis of the internal revenue law, giving the government full power to investigate the books of corporations to determine their earnings. He also believes that such a provision could be drawn so as to be held by the supreme court to be constitutional. The president recommends that the tax should be unlimited as to time, as this feature is considered essential to the success of the proposed law in insuring publicity,
which has come to be considered as
of sufficient importance, to dwarf even
the revenue producing element of the amendment.

SOLDIERS BRAVE TYPHOID.

Inoculated with Disease Germs in Test
by Physicians.

Omaha, Neb., June 16.—Major Gilchrist, Sergt. Fuller and Privates
Schmidt, Ingram, Harrison, Goodman
and Fowler, and Acting Cook Daily of the United States army, seven in all,
were inoculated with typhoid fever
serum, and will test the qualities of the vaccine.

The germs were introduced into the blood by injection into the arms of the men, who have volunteered for the experiment. It is anticipated that the men will be ill for 48 hours, with high fever and nausea. They will be kept quiet and in ten days, if no alarming symptoms arise, will again be inoculated. A third injection will be made at the end of 20 days. Close scrutiny will be made of their condition during the entire period to determine the success of the experiment.

an effort was made to rescue him.

A FINE PROGRAM ON CLASS NIGHT

COMMENCEMENT WEEK COM-MENCED LAST NIGHT.

THE ENTERTAINMENT WAS

One of the Best That Have Been Given by Any Graduating Class of the High School.

Class Night of the commencement exercises at the high school last night was one of the most successful in the history of the school and the attendance at the entertainment was larger than usual. The entertainment was itself of that high class character of all events given by the high school.

The past two days have been laboriously spent by the Juniors in decorating the hall for the occasion. The arrangements made by this year's Juniors were more elaborate and pleasing to the eye than any ever put up by their predecessors. Around the rafters of the room, strips of bunting, of green and white, the colors of the graduating class, had been hung. Between these festoons of crepe paper of the same hues were suspended. On the front wall of the room above the footlights, the class
motto, in the colors of the class, "Still Achieving, Still Pursuing," was placed. Directly under this was an electric sign with the number 1909
on it.

D. A. R. Medal
Principal H. C. Buell presided at the exercises which began shortly after eight o'clock. Before taking up the regular commencement plans Professor Buell, in behalf of the D. A. R., presented George Lethner of the Lincoln school, who had the highest standing in the history test given by the D. A. R., with the medal given by the society. Miss Emily Moser of the Adams, who stood next in rank
to Lethner, received the second prize
from the ladies.

The regular program was opened
with a musical selection by an orchestra composed mostly of scholars at the high school and under the leadership of F. F. Lewis.

In behalf of the class of '09, Vincent Koch, president of the class, welcomed to the commencement exercises
the Board of Education and the people of Janesville. He then spoke of the many good things which the graduates have received from the school
and its associations during the past four years.

"Alaska" was the subject of an illustrative exercise given by Miss Alfred Dunn. A number of views of Sitka, the mountains near the city,
streets and a church and views of Juniors were used to illustrate the talk given by Miss Dunn. America, in her opinion, was a better place
than Alaska to live in.

Comparing the class of 1909 to a company of soldiers, Ralph Tinslet
in his "History" outlined briefly the yearly campaigns through which the class has passed, the accomplishments of the members in the old of athletic sports (particularly "P") and the glory
won by his classmates in literary work. Having completed the enumeration, they now are drawn up in dress parade waiting for their honorable discharge.

Miss Myrtle Curtis, accompanied by Miss Pearl Peters on the piano, sang
a pretty soprano solo entitled "O Flower of All the World."

The requests of the departing class
to their schoolmates and the faculty were made known in the reading of the class will by Earl B. Scoville.
The records of high scholarship, the doctors occupied by them and other property of the class were left to the underclassmen. Members of the faculty were remembered with appropriate gifts. The witnesses to this last testament were Mrs. D. Foley and William Flynn.

X-Rays, their discovery, the method
of producing them, their difference
from light rays, the method of detection of the X-rays and their practical uses were described by Raymond In-ford Snyder. Lantern slides illustrated parts of his talk. Assisted by Glen H. Snyder a demonstration of the working of an X-ray machine was given.

The class poem, written and delivered by Miss Vera Nolan, was clever for its originality in thought and correctness in meter. Picturing the class of 1909 as a ship told of the voyage
of the past four years in the opening verses of her lyric. The passengers of the vessel, the members of the class were described by little anecdotes in rhyme.

In "Scottish Song and Burns," a short history of Scottish poetry up to the time of Burns, was given by Miss Josephine Jones. He was the greatest and the last of all the poets of Scotland. The poem "For A' That" was quoted as an example of Burns' verse.

The second part of this number was a violin solo, the third "Fantasia Minimo," which has the air of "Coming Through the Rye" and "My Love Sho't a Lassie Yet," by Miss Hallie Turner. Miss Clara Blockett acted as piano accompanist for Miss Turner's number which was excellently rendered.

A representation of the national characteristics in costume by the Misses Estelle Lites, Hazel Welch, and Mildred L. Sutherland, in a conversation between the three, Miss Welch
as Cherry Blossom, Lites as the cactus, Sutherland as the pleasures of the Japanese people and Miss Sutherland, as Aida Sando of the life of the Scandinavian races.
Miss Lites was the American girl friend of both.

Mr. H. S. Hayner's rendition of Leyba's "Belero," on the violin,
was splendid and was heartily applauded.

Looking into the future, Miss Eloise
Eldred and Fred Granger in the final number of the program, the prophecy,
told of the homes and occupations of classmates and faculty in the year 1929. An office of a Chicago hospital, in which Miss Eldred is supposed to be employed and in which Prof. L. F.
Hahr is confined for three days with a "fractured voice," is the setting of their little act. Granger calls upon Miss Eldred and they talk of those who graduated with them. A newspaper and a telephone are the sources

of a number of witty and clever force-casts for 1909 graduates.

LA PRAIRIE.

La Prairie, June 14.—Mrs. Pearl
Chesmore and Mrs. Eugene Colver entertained the Ladies' Auxiliary of Emerald Grove last Thursday afternoon at the former's home.
Mrs. Frank Hagless entertained the
J. D. M. A. last Thursday.

About fifty couples attended the dance given by Roy Dean, Arthur Dean and Floyd Yeomans, Friday evening at the Grand hall. A good time was enjoyed by all.

Remember the dance at the Grange hall, June 25. A cordial invitation is extended to all.

Mrs. Margaret Barless visited her son, Frank, and family last Thursday.

PORTER.

Porter, June 14.—Miss Mayne Tiernan has gone to Janesville for a few weeks.

Our high school students have all
returned home for their vacations.
Everything in the line of vegetation
is looking fine owing to the late rains.

Miss Kathryn Nichols closed a very successful year's teaching in the Eagle district with a picnic on last Saturday. A very nice program was rendered and a large crowd was in attendance. The pupils, as a slight token of esteem, presented their teacher with a beautiful gold bracelet.

Supr. Hemingway of Janesville
"graced" the occasion with his presence and gave a short address in his usual pleasing manner. It was a "brilliant" afternoon and all the little
"foats" as well as the "big ones," who attended, had a lovely time.

School in the Miller district closed
on Friday with a picnic. The teacher, Miss Nellie Roberts, returned to her home in Center on Sunday.

EVANSVILLE COUPLE WERE MARRIED TODAY

Miss Boush North Weds William
P. Cresop—Other Evansville Items.

Evansville, June 15.—The marriage of Miss Boush North and Mr.
William Porter Cresop was solemnized this morning at eleven o'clock
at the home of the bride's parents in this city. Cut flowers and ferns were tastefully used to decorate the room for the occasion. Only the immediate relatives witnessed the ceremony,
which was performed by the bride's father, Rev. T. W. North, the ring service being used. Congratulations and a wedding breakfast followed
and the couple left immediately for St. Paul where they will spend a short time before going to their residence in Misses City, Mont.

The bride is the oldest daughter of Rev.
and Mrs. T. W. North and for a number of years has been instructor of her in the schools at Misses City,
while the groom is a prosperous merchant in that place. Many friends wished them much happiness in their wedded life.

Twenty-five members of the Order of Eastern Star of Janesville and about fifteen from Footville were entertained by the local chapter at a reception and banquet last evening.
The dinner was served at six-thirty o'clock in the parlors of the First Baptist church. Covers were laid for one hundred and ten and the tables were appropriately decorated with flowers in the colors of the Order.

After the banquet the company returned to their hall where the regular work of the evening took place. Mr.
and Mrs. Burton Billings were invited and received the degrees of the order. An interesting program then followed. A quartet composed of Mesdames P. C. Wilder, D. P. Heid-
dow, E. J. Ballard and C. M. Smith, gave three vocal selections, and Miss Etta Hubbard a reading. Rev.
D. Q. Grubbs acted as worthy patron in the absence of F. W. Gilman and gave an address. Grand Associate Conductress, Mrs. Dower; Worthy
Matron, Mrs. Morrill; Worthy Patron,
Mr. Carrier, all of Janesville, and Mrs.
Townsend and Mr. Brown, worthy matrons and worthy patron of Footville, gave most interesting talks. A very pleasant time was had by all.

Mrs. F. H. Southill of Harvard, Ill., is spending the week at the home of her aunt, Mrs. Joshua Pruitt.

Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Johnson and daughter, Myrtle, returned last evening from a ten days' visit to relatives
in La Crosse.

The preparations for the "Rock County Fair," to be given under the auspices of the Woman's Literary club, Friday evening, June 18th, still continue with increased enthusiasm.
Nearly one hundred men, women and children of Evansville will take part in its production. The mayor will give in his opening address and Creator's
hand will make their first appearance here. A May-pole dance in which fourteen little tots will take part is to be one of the attractions and it is rumored that there will be a wedding
on the stage.

Miss L. Rose of Oshkosh is in the city as a guest of Miss Cora Carpenter.

Joseph Antos of Rockford and Edward R. M. Antos and son, Robert, went to Keokuk today to enjoy a week's outing.

Spencer Woodworth stopped here
last evening on his way from Lawrence university to his home in Black River Falls and will be the guest of his brother, Wade Woodworth, and family, for a few days.

C. C. Brantington spent Monday and Tuesday in Monroe and Madison on business.

Stanley Brink is expected home Thursday from Wayland Academy for the summer vacation.

E. J. Ballard is making extensive improvements on his residence on Liberty street. He has sold the small wing on the south side of the house

to A. M. Van Worman who had it moved onto his lot on Main street and Mr. Ballard is going to build a large addition. Mr. P. Walton and son, Harvey, are doing the carpenter work.

NEW STAMPS HAVE SPECIAL MEANING

Alaska-Yukon Exposition is Celebrated by Special Issue
of Stamps.

In commemoration of the development of the Alaska-Yukon-Pacific Territory, and in honor of the Great Exposition opened at Seattle, the United States Post Office department have made a new issue of postage stamps,
a consignment of which has been received by the Janesville office and which are now on sale. The stamps are rectangular in shape, red in color, 4 1/2 of an inch wide and 1 3/4 of an inch in length.

In the center the larger part of a circle rests on a panel and encloses
a ribbon bearing the words: "Alaska, Yukon, Pacific, 1909." In the center of the circle is a portrait of William H. Seward, who as secretary of State, conducted the negotiations for the purchase of Alaska from Russia.

On either side of the portrait, outside the circle, are two figures containing the public national two, with laurel branches as a background.

These stamps are not issued in book form, nor have any commemorative stamped envelopes, newspaper wrappers, or postal cards been issued. They are not to be sold exclusively in place of the regular series, but are sold at the preference of the purchaser.

MONROE

Monroe, Wis., June 15.—A happy family reunion was held at the home
of Dr. and Mrs. E. W. Myers today
when the family met for the first time in seventeen years. J. H. Myers and family of Minneapolis, Minn. arrived from Duluth, and Harry S. Myers of Chicago came to complete the group.

Miss Janet Jennings of this city
has written a book, "Abraham Lincoln, the Greatest American," which is now out of press and will be sold throughout the country. Miss Jennings was formerly a leading newspaper writer in Washington, D. C.

George Edwin Wm. Heitz, M. H.
Hendrickson, Harry Keegan and John Conroy witnessed the ball game between the Chicago Cubs and Atlanta
at Galena yesterday.

Mrs. Martha Thompson of Adams
was adjudged insane in the county court here and was taken to Mendoza, hospital last evening.

Miss Josie Hawkins and Jacob Stocker, both of Spring Green, were married in this city yesterday.

Mr. and Mrs. Dan Horen of this city attended the funeral of Mrs. Haren's father, William J. McCorry, which was held from St. Mel's church in Chicago at 9 o'clock this morning. Mr.
McCorry formerly resided here being an early settler of Green county. He was born in Ireland in 1821. He moved from here to Chicago some years ago.

Gold Barker, formerly of this city,
died of pneumonia at Glen Flora, Wis. The body was taken to Cedarville, Ill., for burial. He was 58 years of age.

The Monroe Business Institute will close for the summer vacation this week. The students will hold the annual banquet at the Institute Saturday evening.

Mrs. Sarah Drake left yesterday for her home at Denver, Col., after a visit to her mother, Mrs. A. McCannant, here.

Misses Florence Jilant, Dorothy and Charlotte Young and Harry Young
went to Lake Kegonsa yesterday.

Two more automobiles are owned here. O. H. Abertson having a Cadillac and Frank Millman investing in a 7-passenger Thomas Flyer.

Mrs. G. O. Stenra has gone to St.
Paul and Minneapolis to visit.

Miss Grace Spahr left for her home
in Milwaukee yesterday afternoon.

NEW GLARUS

New Glarus, June 15.—John Diach,
who has been working at the village
powerhouse, has resigned and returned to his home at Oshkosh.

Nick Elmer and Henry Legler returned home from a business trip to the Dakotas last Saturday night.

MAN OF MYSTERY LEADS STRIKE-BREAKERS.

Above is the man who is known

still dominates the strikebreakers,
who he is or whence he came no
one but a chosen few know. He works quietly, but is always on the job. Whatever success has attended the strikebreakers may be credited largely to him.

In the work he is assisted by strike-breaker Cohan and the burden of the disagreeable work is falling on their shoulders.

AID FOR SEAMSTRESSES

Gauges Width of Hem.
One of the most difficult tasks to perform on a sewing machine is to sew a straight line. Ordinarily any little deviation is not noticeable, but in the case of a hem or tuck the slightest irregularity is apparent. At this point a Philadelphia man comes to the rescue with a device for gauging the width of a hem
or tuck to a steady and accurate line.
The device is a small attachment which projects across the bed plate of a sewing machine and in the line of feed. This

The BLACK BAG

By Louis Joseph Vance

Copyright, 1908, by the Bobbs-Merrill Co.

"I do," returned Calendar easily. "We're both in the shadow of jail. Mul, my boy, since you choose to take the reference as personal. Sing Sing, however, yawns for me alone. It's going to keep on yawning, too, unless I make my guess. I love my native land most to death, but—"

"Ow, blow that!" interrupted the captain irritably. "Let's hear about the 'Allan.' We're you afraid of?"

"Frank she'll set up a yell when she finds out we're planting the loot, cap'n. She's just that vindictive. You'd think she'd be satisfied with her end of the stick, but you don't know the Allan."

"The Allan. That milk and water off-spring of hers is the apple of her eye, and Freddie's going to collar the whole shooting match or madam will kick over the traces."

"Well?"

"Well, she's queered us here. We can't do anything if my lady is going to camp on our trail and tell everybody we're shady customers, can we? The question now before the board is, 'Where now—and how?'"

"Amsterdam," Mulready chimed in. "I told you that in the beginning."

"But how?" argued Calendar. "The Lord knows I'm willing, but we can't go by rail, thanks to the Allan."

"We've got to lose her first of all."

"But what I'm asking is what's the matter with—"

"The Allan, cap'n? Nothing, so far as Dick and I are concerned. But my dutiful daughter is prejudiced. She's been so long without proper paternal discipline," Calendar laughed. "That she's rather high spirited. Of course I might overcome her objections, but the girl's no fool, and every ounce of pressure I bring to bear just now only helps make her more restless and suspicious."

"You leave her to me," Mulready interposed, with a brutal laugh. "I'll guarantee to get her aboard or—"

"Drop it, Dick," Calendar advised quietly. "and go a bit easy with that bottle for five minutes, can't you?"

"Well, then," Stryker resumed, apparently concurring in Calendar's attitude. "Why don't one of you take the stuff, go off quiet and dispose of it to a proper fence and come back to divide. I don't see why that—"

"Naturally you wouldn't," chuckled Calendar. "Few people besides the two of us understand the depth of affection existing between Dick, here, and me. We just can't bear to get out of sight of each other. We're sure inseparable—since night before last. Odd, isn't it?"

"You drop it," snarled Mulready in accents so ugly that the listener was startled. "Enough's enough, and—"

"There, there, Dick! All right. I'll behave," Calendar soothed him. "We'll forget and say no more about it."

"Well, see you don't,"

"But 'as either of you a plan?" persisted Stryker.

"I have," replied Mulready, "and it's the simplest and best, if you could only make this long lost parent here see it."

"What is it?"

Mulready seemed to ignore Calendar and address himself to the captain. He articulated with some difficulty, slurring his words to the point of indistinctness at times.

"Simple enough," he propounded solemnly. "We've got the gladstone bag here, Miss Dolly's at the hotel. That's her papa's bright notion. He thinks she's to be trusted. Now, then, what's the matter with weighing anchor and slipping quietly out to sea?"

"Leaving the doubtful darter?"

"Certainly. She's only a drag anyway. Better off without her. Then we can wait our time and get highest market prices."

"You forget, Dick," Calendar put in, "that there's a thousand in it for each of us if she's kept out of England for six weeks. A thousand's five thousand in the land I hail from. I can use five thousand in my business."

"Why can't you be content with what you've got?" demanded Mulready wrathfully.

"Because I'm a seventh son of a seventh son. I can see as much or two beyond my nose. If Dorothy ever sends her way back to England she'll spend one of the finest fields of legitimate graft I ever licked my lips to look at. The trouble with you, Mul, is you're too high toned. You want to play the well-mannered man post to finish. A quick touch and a clean getaway for yours. Now, that's all right—that has its good points—but you don't want to underestimate the advantages of a good blackmailing connection. If I can keep Dorothy quiet long enough I can keep the Allan and precious Freddie to be a great comfort to me in my old age."

"Then, for heaven's sake," cried Mulready, "go to the hotel, get your brat by the scruff of her pretty neck and drag her aboard! Let's get out of this!"

"I won't," returned Calendar inflexibly.

The dispute continued, but the listener had heard enough. Stealthily he crept away to the rail, to stand grasping it and staring across the water with unseeing eyes at the gay old city twinkling back with her thousand eyes of light.

Over there, across the water, in the dingy and disreputable Hotel du Commerce, Dorothy waited in her room, doubtless the prey of unnumbered nameless terrors, while aboard the brigantine her fate was being decided by a council of three unspeakable scoundrels, one of whom, professing himself her father, openly declared his intention of using her to further his selfish and criminal ends.

His first and natural thought—to steal away to her and induce her to accompany him back to England—Kirkwood, however, discarded. He could have went over the realization of his unqualified impotency. He had no money, not even cash fare from the hotel to the railway station. Something subtle, more crafty, had to be contrived to meet the emergency. And there was one way, one only. He could see none other. Temporarily he must make himself one of the company of her enemies, force himself upon them, ingratiate himself into their good graces, gain their confidence, then when opportunity offered betray them. And the power to make them tolerate him, if not receive him as a fellow, the knowledge of them and their plans that they had unwittingly given him, was his.

And Dorothy was waiting.

He swung round and without attempting to muffle his footsteps strode toward the companionway. He must pretend he had just come aboard.

Subconsciously he had been aware during his time of pondering that the voices in the cabin had been steadily gaining in volume, rising louder and yet more loud, Mulready's ominous, drink-blurred accents dominating the others. There was a quarrel afoot. As soon as he gave it heed Kirkwood understood that Mulready in the madness of his inflamed brain was forcing the issue, while Calendar sought vainly to calm and soothe him.

The American arrived at the head of the companionway at a critical juncture. As he moved to descend some low, cool-toned retort of Calendar's seemed to enrage his confederate beyond reason. He yelled aloud with wrath, sprang to his feet, knocking over a chair, and, leaping back toward the foot of the steps, dashed an adroit hand behind him and found his revolver.

"I've stood enough from you!" he screamed, his voice oddly clear in that moment of insanity. "You've played with me as long as you will, you bullying American hog! And now I'm going to show you—"

As he held his fire to permit his denunciation to bite home Kirkwood, appalled to find himself standing on the threshold of a tragedy, gathered himself together and launched through the air, straight for the madman's shoulders.

As they went down together sprawling Mulready's head struck against a transom, and the revolver fell from his limp fingers.

CHAPTER XXV.

PREPARED as he had been for the shock, Kirkwood was able to pick himself up quickly, uninjured. Mulready's revolver in his grasp.

On his feet, straddling Mulready's incontinent body, he confronted Calendar and Stryker. The face of the latter was a sickly green, the gift of his fright. The former seemed coldly composed, already recovering from his surprise and bringing his wits to bear upon the new factor which had been so unceremoniously injected into the situation.

He was leaning heavily upon a hand that rested flat on the table. In this hand he held a revolver, which he had apparently drawn in self defense at the crisis of Mulready's frenzy. Its muzzle was directed. He looked Kirkwood over with a cool gray eye, the color gradually returning to his face, clean shaven cheeks, replacing the pardonable pallor which had momentarily rested thereon.

As for Kirkwood, he had covered the fat adventurer before he knew it. Stryker, who had been standing immediately in the rear of Calendar, immediately covered and cringed to find himself in the line of fire.

Of the three conscious men in the brigantine's cabin Calendar was probably the least confused or excited. Stryker was palpably unamused. Kirkwood was twirling with a sense of mastery, but collected and rapidly revolving the combinations for the reversed conditions which had been brought about by Mulready's drunken folly. His elation was apparent in his shining boyish eyes as well as in the bright color that glowed in his cheeks. When he decided to speak, it was with rapid enunciation, but clearly and concisely.

"Calendar," he began, "if a single shot is fired about this vessel the river police will be buzzing round your ears in a brace of shakes."

"The fat adventurer nodded assent, his eyes contracting."

"Very well," continued Kirkwood brusquely. "You must know that I have personally nothing to fear from the police. If arrested I wouldn't be detained a day. On the other hand, you—hand me that pistol, Calendar, but first, please, look sharp, my man! If you don't—"

He left the ellipsis to be filled in by the eloquent blackguard's intelligence. The latter, gray eyes still intent on the younger man's face, wavered, plainly impressed, but still wondering.

"Quiet! I'm not patient tonight."

No longer was Calendar of two minds. In the face of Kirkwood's attitude there was but one course to be followed—that of obedience. Calendar surrendered an untenable position as gracefully as could be wished.

DAILY DIET HINTS

COMMON SALT VS. SALT IN FOODS.

Common salt should be used sparingly. The elements of salt, chlorine and sodium, are highly important in the economy of digestion and cell nutrition, but the crude, mineral salt serves only as an irritant, causing an excessive flow of saliva, which of course heightens the capacity for tasting whatever is in the mouth with it; but such a means of stimulating taste is both unnatural and unnecessary. Properly selected natural food with a natural appetite are the best conditions for the normal enjoyment of food. But common salt must be eliminated through the kidneys whose delicate organism it irritates as indicated by the abnormal thirst following the eating of much salt.

Of course failure to drink enough water might be worse than eating much salt under certain circumstances. But wheat, nuts, lettuce, cabbage (uncooked), milk, figs, contain ample chlorine to form gastric fluid and ample sodium and in natural form.

100 Years Hence

No More Drudgery—Just Live To Enjoy Yourselves.

Ellie Wheeler Wilcox believes in a hundred years to serve, and for her, the air on the wings of the wind and have time to see and enjoy the wonders of the world and people of the future which are now the eternal grind of every day life.

Look back 100 years and the changes made seem just as great. What we wear, how we travel, how we communicate, what we eat, movable clothes, wireless telegraphs, telephones, fast trains and mail steamers, and beautiful foods.

Today instead of loading our stomachs with heavy, greasy breakfasts, the dull brain and retard our morning's work, we eat delicious E-C Corn Flakes or Egg-O-Sees Wheat Flakes, made by the famous E-C process that insures perfect digestion, high nutrition and greater strength.

Always ready to serve, good for babies, best for invalids—the sensible breakfast for the business man or the busy, energetic housewife. Remember it's the E-C process that makes the flakes so crisp and delicious.

BEATS A MILE A MINUTE IN AUTO RACE PRACTICE

Strang Sets Mad Pace in Dash Over "Western Vanderbilt" Course at Crown Point.

Crown Point, Ind., June 16.—Louis Strang, one of the men who will drive in the "Western Vanderbilt" auto races here Friday and Saturday, broke the practice record as he sped over the course at a pace that meant death had an accident occurred.

Strang, in a 30-horse power Buick, accompanied by a newspaper man, started on the course at Main street and made the 23 miles in 21 minutes, a little better than a mile a minute. The course led him almost entirely around the parkway before the grandstand was reached, here, near the finish of his record-breaking lap, a crowd of officials began timing him for the second lap. This he made in 24 minutes.

For the first time since the trials began the course was kept clear. Not a vehicle violated the pathway, and cows and pigs were likewise courteous. One lonely dog wandered in front of a Knox driven by Denison. Denison was going at a terrific clip and the dog's body bounded against the pipe leading from the gasoline tank, breaking it and spilling what seemed scheduled for a very fast lap. Previously, however, Denison made the round in 26:12.

The two Apperson "Jack Rabbits" driven by Lytle and Seymour were out for the first time, and Lytle, despite ignorance of the course, scored a lap in 25 minutes flat. Phil Wells also piloted the Moon entry on its initial round, but contented himself with a leisurely inspection of the road. Miller, driving a Stoddard Dayton, equaled Strang's record of 24 minutes. L. A. Hoar, the amateur who has entered his own car, a Fiat, appeared on the course to-day, as did Greiner, another amateur, with a Renault.

Col. Hanborn, commandant of the First regiment, Illinois National Guard, 900 men of which will guard the course during the races, arrived and made a tour of inspection. He decided upon the distribution of his men.

JUDGE IS PRISON LIBRARIAN.

Abner Smith Gets Dougherty's Place at Joliet.

Joliet, Ill., June 16.—Abner Smith, wrecker of the Bank of America, now known as convict No. 1920, was appointed penitentiary librarian to succeed Newton C. Dougherty of Peoria.

Dougherty, at one time the superintendent of schools of Peoria and the custodian of school funds, who was convicted of fraudulent banking, was given the place as prison librarian shortly after his incarceration two years ago.

Smith, who gave his age as 66 years, and whose health is poor, was given the office position by Warden E. J. Murphy. It was feared that he would be given work in the shops of the penitentiary he would succumb to the strain. He did not sleep easily in the cell allotted him by Warden Murphy.

CHURCH TO RAISE $1,000,000.

Norwegian Lutherans to Have Big Celebration in 1914.

Des Moines, Ia., June 16.—United Norwegian Lutheran church voted to raise $1,000,000 jubilee fund to be used in 1914 to mark the twenty-fifth anniversary of the founding of the church convention. The fund will be used to expand the work of the denomination. Each member has practically pledged to give $25 or one dollar each year of the life of the convention. The present membership is 60,000, insuring more than the desired sum.

The annuity insurance plan for superannuated ministers was adopted. By payment of a $200 fee and five dollars annually each member becomes self-supporting and when physically disabled receives $500 annuity. Minneapolis is after next year's convention.

NO NEWS FROM ROOSEVELT.

Party Leaves for Sotik District, But Has Not Been Heard from.

Malvasha, East Africa, June 16.—The Roosevelt party left here ten days ago for the Sotik district, but nothing has been heard of the expedition since its departure.

A member of the party of F. C. Selous, the noted African hunter, and George McMillan, nephew of the late Senator McMillan of Michigan, was brought in heroically wounded by a lion. The man's name is Williams, and he was in the service of Mr. McMillan as a secretary. The encounter with the lion occurred in the Sotik district, where the party has been shooting.

Revolutionists Go to Prison.

Constantinople, June 16.—Four revolutionists, who included the ex-minister of marine and public instruction, and two generals, a former councillor of state, a former valet and 40 other high officials have been sentenced by court-martial to be imprisoned in the provincial fortresses because of complicity in the recent revolutionary movement.

Undertaker Slain in Office.

Troy, N. Y., June 16.—Thomas H. Nealon, an undertaker, was shot and almost instantly killed in his office. Mr. Nealon was shot twice in the chest and died while trying to reach the telephone to summon aid. The assailant who is unknown escaped. He was robbed.
